

BIO: Chris Bennett, CPP

I have been working in payroll for over fifteen years. I earned my FPC certification in the Fall of 2004, and earned my CPP certification in the Fall of 2006. I am a payroll accountant at Ingram Book Company and began working there in May 2004 and I really enjoy working there.

I enjoy working in Payroll because I have always been sort of a “numbers” guy. I like the challenges of the detailed reporting which makes the challenges of payroll accounting a perfect fit for me. That being said, I also love the challenges of working with the general ledger reporting and the tax reporting on the federal and state level.

I was born and have always lived in Nashville and I am married. I have been married to my wife Sandy for thirty four years and she is a teacher and has been doing that for over thirty years. We have a wide variety of pets including a dog, cat, and a bearded dragon. We both love animals and over the years have had several including dogs, birds, fish, rabbits, guinea pigs, and hamsters. We are both love football and hockey and are huge Titan fans and are turning into big Nashville Predators fans as well. In our spare time we do a lot of work with our church and both enjoy reading.
